Part III DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to communications: application, filed on August 30, 2001.
2. Claims 5-9 are pending in the case. Claim 5 is an independent claim.

Specification

3. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. Claims 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are dependent on claims that are either non-existent or improper.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

Art Unit: 2176

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 5-9 are rejected under 35 USC 102(a) as being anticipated by Legal Anywhere Collaborator Version 3.0, Legal Anywhere, LLC, 1997, the product described in pages 1-4 of <http://http://web.archive.org/web/19981202150347/www.legalanywhere.com/TLI.htm>.

The claims are rejected based on the product called Legal Anywhere Collaborator, which is a file management and collaboration tool for attorney practitioners (see page 1, under "Product Overview" section). The Legal Anywhere Collaborator allows the "coordinate and manage workflow between attorneys and their clients, staff, co counsel, and virtually any party involved in the process of delivering legal services. (see page 1, first paragraph)"

As per independent claim 5, Legal Anywhere Collaborator teaches the following claimed features of a method for processing data request from clients of particular practitioners on a distributed computer network:

- maintaining a main document database (page 3, "either ...on site at the law firm's... or ..on our premises");
- registering the practitioners (see page 3, "Who would use this product?", different attorneys are set up to use the system);

Art Unit: 2176

- processing document selections of the practitioners to identify respective home document sets of the practitioners (on page 4, for example, "...can access document that a colleague could make available on their intranetnthrone.." teaches only a necessary set of documents are given access to per practitioner.);

- identifying requesting users as clients of corresponding practitioners (on page 2, second paragraph, "allows for attorneys and ...clients ...to exchange legal documents", teaches recognition of the client);

- processing client requests for permitting access by particular clients to the home document sets of corresponding practitioners and transmitting requesting pages of the home document sets to the particular clients (page 2, in the second paragraph, since the clients can only access documents relating to their own legal matters.).

As per dependent claims 6 and 7, Legal Anywhere Collaborator teaches maintaining a practitioners database, and including practitioner-specific and client-specific portions of the database in pages being transmitted to the particular client (page 4, "provides access control so that an outside attorney can access document" shows practitioner specific page access; and page 2, in the second paragraph, show client specific ).

As per dependent claims 8 and 9, Legal Anywhere Collaborator teaches maintaining client data and tracking client access to the home document sets (page 2, in the third paragraph, "Document ...tracking and storage").
